THIS CORRESPONDENCE IS IN REGARD TO... THE SECRET SQUIRRELS

Some of you have heard Varmint mention The Secret Squirrels in passing, or you've been handed a token with nothing more said. Others — this is the first you've encountered any of this. And some of you will read this and think Varmint has finally gone off the deep end.

That's okay. Keep reading anyway.

◆ WHY NOW ◆

We've all had the conversations — guilt, pride, the creeping sense that something has to change. Well, the planning has to start somewhere, and this is it.

We have lived through more "once-in-a-lifetime" events than most generations in recorded history, and yet we still seem to lack our great generational moment — the defining test. Many of the crises we've already survived may pale beside what I believe will become the next cornerstone of civilization.

Call it optimism or delusion — but the fight for the greater good is not a myth confined to screens and stages. It is the vision of a free people, united in purpose, driven by a revolution of the human spirit in step with something greater than any one of us.

Many years of planning, generations of instinct, and modern tools have led to the quiet evolution of underground communities. Not built from fear — built from foresight. The prayer that they never need to be activated still rings true. But prudence demands readiness.

◆ YOU'VE BEEN INVITED ◆

If you're reading this, you've been invited into such a community. Your choice to accept is yours alone. Should you decline, The Squirrels sincerely respect that and wish you well.

But should this letter serve as a reminder that we don't have smoke detectors, fire escapes, or a 911 line for the moments we're caught most off guard — perhaps the Squirrels, and everything that follows, are exactly for those moments.

Varmint has been a prepper for many years — building maps, guides, and contingency systems for multiple scenarios. All of it built within the Secret Squirrel community, for and with each member, governed by the rules set forth below.

◆ THE SQUIRREL CODE ◆

CORE PRINCIPLES — OPEN TO AMENDMENT BY COMMUNITY VOTE

- ▶ No Squirrel is greater than another.
- ▶ A Squirrel will never harm a member of its nest.
- ▶ A Squirrel always plans ahead for basic needs: water, food, shelter.
- ▶ A Squirrel never preps alone — every nest is built to sustain others.
- ▶ A Squirrel is always resourceful: in friendship, in resources, and in mind.

◆ STRUCTURE & IDENTITY ◆

Each member of this network has been assigned a code name. These aren't for fun — they're functional. Once you confirm, your sector links to the others, like branches through a single tree. The hiker sees the forest and loses it among the wood. We will have a highway.

Every person in this network is someone Varmint would trust with his life. Squirrels cover the plains, the mountains, the coasts, and the trees. They work together despite their differences and build communities that thrive under pressure.

◆ WHAT COMES NEXT ◆

Should you wish to add a member to your nest, request a code name change, or make any adjustments to your plan — reach out to Varmint with the relevant details. Any proposed addition must understand and agree to the Squirrel Code before joining.

You may also receive a follow-up with deeper material — future plans, frameworks for community governance, and systems worth advocating for. Think of it as a guide for discussion: how communities and governments have functioned without egregiously oppressing the people's rights, and what that might look like going forward.

No matter your beliefs, what side of the aisle you stand on, or whether you think I'm a complete nut —

You are now a Secret Squirrel.
